BAND STORY

Cassandra Joy is a 24 year old country singer-songwriter from Troy, Ohio. She is the kind of girl who thrives on music. While country music is what she typically writes and sings, she also enjoys many other genres as well.

Cassandra's love for singing began as a child singing in church and she has been singing ever since. Cassandra has been honing her songwriting and performing skills for over three years as a member of the Dayton-Cincinnati Nashville Songwriter's Association International (N.S.A.I.) chapter. She considers herself a story-teller, as she sings and writes songs about every crush, every heart break, and almost every other life experience that happens to her.

She has won local singing competitions, and has had songs played on a local radio station. Cassandra sings at festivals, fairs and open-mikes in the area, and has performed at such Nashville venues as the Listening Room, Pucketts, and the grand re-opening of the Opry Mills Mall. Cassandra has a very easy listening voice with lyric and melody that stirs the soul.
